A FORGER.

In one of the counties of New York, it appears, the radicals have nominated a forger for Assembly. The World, of 19th inst., says:

The Radicals have nominated in one of the interior counties of the State for the Assembly a man who forged the name of a former speaker of the Assembly to a bill. Almost every Radical paper in the State has indorsed the nomination, and claims that the man is pure, honest, and upright. Such is the Radical idea of purity and virtue.

If the radicals up in New York can swallow a forger, they are duced sight more depraved than we took them to be. We should like to see the rads down this way dare nominate a forger for Assembly, we tell you the Reporter and the Watchman would howl, and make Centre county too hot for him to stay.—Centre Hall Reporter.

The above we clip from the Centre Hall Reporter, Edited by Fred Kurtz, and we give Fred credit even at this late hour, after the fat has been kicked into the fire, for his premonitory symptoms of political independance, and this direct shot at P. G. Meek, for his Lytle-Chambers forgery by which he cheated and defrauded Jno. H. Orvis, Esq., out of the nomination. If, says Fred, the Radicals of New York, are so disposed as to swallow a political Forger, "they are a duced sight more depraved than we took them to be." How does Fred and the Pennsvalley Democrats stand in supporting Meek? Are we to understand you to be "a duced sight more depraved than we took you to be"? The "Reporter and the Watchman" did "not howl," nor "make Centre county too hot for him (Meek) to stay." Or are we to understand Fred, that it is when the Rads of Centre nominate a Forger for Assembly, the Reporter and Watchman are to howl? Do you profess to teach the doctrine, that Democratic office seekers in Centre county have a legitimate right to Forge names to secure a nomination for Assembly or any other office, when and how they please? Is this your meaning Fred? Was it right to vote for Meek?

Fred finding himself in a dilemma has another editorial headed "State Elections" that is a justification of the Pennsvalley Democrats, for scratching Meek's name off the ticket. Fred says, "if the Democracy have made any mistakes in its nominations, that may have driven honest men from the cordial support of the ticket, let us in future profit by the lesson, and see that men are nominated who can look other honest men in the face and victory will certainly be achieved."

This is not bad doctrine Fred, and follows your beacon light, J. S. Black, while it scathes Meek and hints to him what he may expect from you hereafter. But, then Fred, you always have a mental reservation before an election, and only become bold after the election is over. It is when the election is over that you do your loud talk, or until another nomination is made, and then you play the Cooly, and serve your masters of the Ring. Fred might make himself a political somebody by acting out in good faith the part he is now pursuing. He must be consistant in so doing, then he would command respect in his own party and have that political influence to which he would be entitled and also have the respect of the honest members of both political parties. Wake up Fred! Be honest. Be consistant.

THE romance of Enoch Arden finds an unromantic illustration in Virginia. One John Wiley, a private in a Virginia regiment, was wounded during the early part of the war, was for a long time confined in the hospital, and then took the oath of allegiance and went west. Mrs. Wiley mourned him as dead for four years, and then became Mrs. Wm. Smith. A few days ago, as she sat on the porch of her home, a bronzed traveller approached and embraced her most enthusiastically. Smith first knocked the man down and then asked him who he was! It was John Wiley, husband No. 1, his feelings greatly wounded at his reception. Explanations and apologies followed. A compromise was effected, and for $200 Mr. Wiley agreed to start at once for Colorado, to return no more.

THE NOVEMBER ELECTIONS.

The October elections have all gone for the Republicans. The November elections will all go for the Republicans. For the simple reason that Republicans are right and they saved the government. The people will never trust the Democratic party. New York will go Republican, she will be redeemed.—New Jersey will go Republican, because the great heart of that State is right. Doolittle the Andy Johnson traitor will be defeated by more than the usual Republican majority in Wisconsin, and in Virginia large Republican gains are anticipated. All hail Republicanism! The people—the masses of the people—have made up their minds that Democracy is a sham, that it cannot be trusted. Democracy endeavored to destroy the Government, the people know it and they will never trust it again. The Democracy endeavored to destroy the Union. Gen. Grant and the boys in blue saved it. The American people will trust President Grant.

Nine States hold their elections in November. These States are New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Maryland, Illinois, Minnesota, Mississippi, Wisconsin and Virginia.

New York elects a portion of its State officers and Justices of the Supreme Court, and both branches of the Legislature. Tammany has done the work for the State of New York. The thieves are spotted by the people.

New Jersey elects its Governor and Legislature. Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota and Wisconsin their State officers and Legislatures. Illinois elects a Congressman-at-large, and a Congressman to fill a vacancy and Mississippi and Virginia their Legislatures.

We repeat that these States will go Republican for the reason that the people will not trust the Democratic party. Even the Irishmen have failed to have faith in the Democratic party. They remember Daniel O'Connell and they know that he always advocated the emancipation of the negro. They see, now, that Daniel O'Connell was right, and that the great and good GOD smiled upon his efforts. An Irishman that cannot see it is false to himself. Is false to his native country, and equally false to the country of his adoption. In spite of all the conflicting elements the November elections will go for the Republicans.

FREE TRADE.

Workingmen of Centre county we have a word to say to you. There are but two things which is hard to get a Democrat to surrender, viz: Their love of free trade and contempt for free white labor. In this we endorse the State Journal when it says, "they stick to their feelings with all the tenacity of men resolved to die for their opinions. At no time while in power, or while seeking power, has the Democratic party failed, either secretly or openly, to oppose the interests of American labor. In the last election in this State, while the platform, on which that party fought the battle, contained a double-dealing resolution in favor of protection, all their orators and organs advocated free trade. The Democratic party, could not even if it tried change its hostility to free labor." Workingmen of Centre county, of Pennsylvania, will you trust your friends. Well you support the Democratic party and English free trade, when you know as honestly as you have souls in your bodies, that the doctrines they advocate, will ruin you and your children? Working men of Pennsylvania, strike for your rights. Do you prefer England and her workshops, to free America and American manufactories? Do you prefer the low wages of England, to the remunerative wages of America? If you do not, then vote the Republican ticket. Vote for American men, American measures and American wages to American men. Will you think? Will you listen?

SLAVERY is rapidly disappearing from the world. At the end of our war Mr. Charles Sumner predicted that ten more years would see an end of the ownership of men in the Spanish West Indies and in Brazil. Already the leading statesmen of Spain are resolved upon the abolition of slavery throughout the Spanish possessions; and even the "volunteers" of Cuba, who insist on preserving their peculiar institution, just as the chivalry of South Carolina did ten years ago, must soon give way. But in Spain the sovereign is not an autocrat, as in Russia; and whatever his will may be, emancipation by that power must be the work of public opinion.

From the Village Record.

THE "JEFERSONIAN" ON THE ELECTION.

As we expected our neighbor of the Jeffersonian is highly delighted with the result of the election in Pennsylvania. They are used up it is true; defeat is bad; but then victory was worse. Democratic success at the election at the polls was the success of the "new departure" and of the "political scoundrels" who brought it forth and forced it upon the party. The Jeffersonian does not enjoy Republican victories, but we are glad to know that it prefers them to the election "shows that the Democracy of Pennsylvania cannot be sold out by a few dishonest and truckling politicians," and takes comfort in the idea that "no such odious and anti-Democratic doctrines as this negro departure movement will ever hereafter be heard of." He concludes his remarks in language so plain that "he who runs may read" and cannot fail to understand it. He says.

Another benefit to be derived will be the retirement of our political leaders who brought this disgrace and seeming defeat upon the party. For some time past our leaders have been an incubus upon the party; they could not command the confidence of Democrats nor the respect of Republicans; they staked their all upon this New Departure movement; have ignominiously and ingloriously failed, and must now retire to the rear ranks and let more honest, more honorable and competent leaders take their place. Unless this is done; unless we have new leaders before the next campaign, Grant will be the next President.

We must have a thorough and a complete reorganization of the Democratic party of this State if we wish success. For years past the party has been led by fourth-rate politicians, and it is now time for our best men to come forward and direct our movements.

Upon Democratic principle led by true and honest Democratic leaders we can carry this State by at least 30,000 majority. We could have done it this year had we have had a Democratic platform to stand and work upon.

Down with our present leaders!

Down with negro suffrage!

Down with the so-called 14th and 15th amendments!

Down with the bald, naked and brazen lie which the last clause of the 9th resolution contains!

And up with the Constitution.

Up with State Rights!

And up with Civil Liberty, and Local Self Government.

New leaders and Democratic principles will in 1872 insure Victory.

THE PENNSYLVANIA CENTRAL.

The Knoxville (Tennessee) Press states that the Pennsylvania Central and the lessees of the Western and Atlantic Roads have purchased the Knoxville and Kentucky Road for $350,000; that the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Road have bought the Cincinnati, Cumberland Gap and Charleston Road for $300,000; while the Nashville and Northwestern has been sold to the Nashville and Chattanooga Company for $1,700,000 in State bonds, and $500,000 in currency expended on the road. The purchasing road in the latter case had a claim for the smaller amount under their lease previous, but now assume the U. S., claims against it for material furnished after the war. And finally, it is stated that the Pennsylvania Central have bought 10,000 shares of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia road, that has, as above, bought the Cincinnati, Cumberland Gap and Charleston, and have paid par, amounting to $1,000,000. There were some three hundred shares less than 20,000 in East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia at the last statement; wherefore the reported purchase of 10,000 by the Pennsylvania Central would give the latter control. If the Central pursues its course of extension a little longer it may soon very truthfully exclaim:

"No pent-up Utica confines our powers—
The whole unbounded continent is ours."

SOME twenty months since a gentleman in Lawrence, Kansas, put up a corn crib on the corner of Rhode Island and Hancock streets, and filled it with six thousand bushels of corn at an average price of fifty-one cents per bushel. A Lawrence firm have recently bought the entire lot at thirty cents per bushel.

A SHARP ANSWER.

Among the tricks resorted to by the Democrats at the late election, says the Clinton Republican, was a circular addressed to soldiers throughout the State calling their attention to a resolution adopted at the Harrisburg Democratic Convention in May last relating to bounties, claiming peculiar regard for the soldier, and charging injustice upon "the Radicals" in this particular. Accompanying this circular was a printed note from Gen. M'Candless enclosing "weasel-heads," and reading as follows:—

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2, 1871.

MY DEAR SIR: On account of our former comradeship in the Army, I have the honor to enclose a few slips, and earnestly request your vote and personal influence at the coming election.

Very truly, yours,
WM. MCCANDLESS.

One of these affectionate little epistles, with accompanying documents, was addressed to Mr. Harris Hoover, of Curwinsville, Clearfield county. The letter did not reach Curwinsville until the election was over, and was forwarded by the Postmaster of this city, where Mr. Hoover is sojourning for the present in the transaction of some business. With a true soldierly sense of honor, Mr. Hoover indignantly returned the missive, so insulting to his intelligence and patriotism, to Col. M'Candless, with the subjoined scathing rebuke:—

CURWINSVILLE, CLEARFIELD CO., PA.,
October 20th, 1871.

GEN. WM. M'CANDLESS;—Dear Sir:—I herewith return the "slips" you were kind enough to send me in your favor of the 2d inst. They came too late for use; but had they arrived "on time," it is not certain I would have used them as requested.

Not having had the honor of your acquaintance during the times that tried men's souls (and bodies), I fail to appreciate the appeal made to me to vote the Democratic ticket from personal considerations. That you may have been a brave soldier I have no reason to doubt. But when you ask me to vote for you on a Democratic platform, you must take it for granted that I have lost my memory, and am fast approaching lunacy.

I enlisted in the service in June, '61, and for four years did my duty (as a soldier should) without reference to bounty. If the Union was saved, I was paid. But the experience of those four years is seared into my memory.—I have not forgotten that all through that dark and bloody struggle for the life of the nation, it was the Democratic party who mourned over Union victories; who rejoiced at our defeats; who opposed the draft to fill our decimated ranks; who impaired the National credit; who voted "the war a faliure;" who called the soldiers "murderers," "cutthroats," "thieves," "Lincoln hirelings," &c.,&c.; who voted to disfranchise the soldiers of Pa., who insulted soldiers' widows and orphans; who exhausted the ingenuity of the Archfiend himself to break up the Union. But when they failed, and the Union was established in spite of them, they, with appalling impudence, jumped upon the car of progress, grasp at the reigns of government, and with an audacity that would make hell blush with conscious impotence, ask soldiers to get up and ride with them! Thank you, Gen.; we decline!—By a Democratic Slaveholders' rebellion I lost health, strength, friends, property, and all but life, reason and honor, and as long as these are left me, it is not likely that I will vote the Democratic ticket.

When pestilence and disease run riot through my body; when famine reduces my frame to the Andersonville standard of attenuation; when fever dries up my blood, and reason deserts her throne, then I will drop you a line and take your proposition under consideration.

Very respectfully your ob't. serv't.,
H. HOOVER.

A BRAVE ACT.—On Friday morning last, as the day express north on the Allegheny Valley Railroad was approaching Kittanning, the engineer of the train, John M'Ginnes, discovered a child on the track a short distance ahead of the train. The air brake was applied and the engine instantly reversed, but all efforts to prevent killing the little one would have been in vain, had it not been for the courage and daring of the fireman, John Byers, who, seeing the danger, ran out and stood on the pilot of the engine until it was near the child, and then made a spring, caught the child in his arms and rolled off the track with it, just in time to prevent its being crusned to death.

To the air brake, the coolness of the engineer, and the heroic daring of the brave John Byers, the parents of the little one may be thankful for the preservation of the life of their child.—Miltonian.

AFTER the great fire in London, in 1866, Parliament enacted that every house should be built with independent walls, and all in front raised to equal height, and those walls should be of stone or brick, and that no man should delay beyond seven years.

PHENOMENA AND INCIDENTS OF THE NORTHERN FIRE.

[From the Green Bay Advocate.]

PHENOMENA OF THE FIRE.

There are some phases of the great calamity which fell upon this region last week worthy of scientific investigation. The testimony of the cooler headed survivors of the fires at Peshtigo, the Sugar Bush and Williamsonville is united as to one phenomena: They say that the fire did not come upon them gradually from burning trees and other objects to the windward, but the first notice they had of it was a whirlwind of flame, in great clouds, from above the tops of the trees, which fell upon and enveloped everything. The atmosphere seemed one of fire. The poor people inhaled it, or the intensely hot air, and fell down dead. This is verified by the appearance of many of the corpses. They were found dead in the roads and open spaces where there were no visible marks of fire near by, with not a trace of burning upon their bodies or clothing. At the Sugar Bush, which is an extended clearing, in some places four miles in width, corpses were found in the open road, between fences which were only slightly burned. No mark of fire was upon them, but they laid there as if asleep. This phenomenon seems to explain the fact that so many were killed in compact masses. They seemed to have huddled together in what were evidently regarded at the moment as the safest places, away from buildings, trees or other inflammable material, and there to have died together. Fences around cleared fields were burned in spots of only a few rods in length, and elsewhere not touched. Fish were killed in the streams—as at Peshtigo.

We bear the universal testimony that the prevailing idea among the terror-stricken people of those places were that the last day had come. They needed not to be terror-stricken for such imaginings. What other explanation could be given to that imminent time, when there was an ominous warning and sound coming from the distance; when the sky so dark just before, burst into great clouds of fire, the beasts of the forest came running for succor into the midst of the settlements, and a great, red, consuming, roaring hell of fire fell upon all around. The dreadful scene lacked nothing but the sounding of the last trumpet—and indeed the approach of the awful roaring, and the premonitions from the distance supplied even that to the appalled imaginings of the people.

The Espy theory, we think it is that continued and widespread fires will bring on rain, seems to be entirely exploded in this instance. These fires had lasted nearly or quite four weeks, ravaging forests over a great area, and still not a drop of rain. The rain only come with a change of wind to the northward, and several days after the worst burnings were over with.

WHAT A SURVIVOR SAYS.

To a person not in the fire it seems incredible that so many should have perished in the flames. To me—and I presume to most of those who were in the fire—it seems a miracle that so many were saved. If you suppose the worst snow-storm you ever witnessed, and each snow-flake a coal or spark of fire, driven before a fierce wind, and you have some idea of the state of the atmosphere at the time the fire struck the time. We all know how little presence of mind many people have in times of great excitement, and but few persons know just what to do when death, in its most appalling form, stares them in the face. Of one thing, however, we may be sure—all, under such circumstances, do the best they are capable of doing. There were deeds of heroism, that fearful night in Peshtigo, that are worthy a place by the side of the brightest and noblest facts of history. Many lost their lives in attempting to save the lives of others. Many have been found clasping some darling object of affection in their arms, as in the act of shielding them from the fire. Mothers were dreadfully burned, but saved their children. Husbands and fathers were burned but saved their families. One was dreadfully burned in attempting to save his wife and two children; but they were burned. A young lady ran for the river with a child in her arms; but overcome by the heat and fright, fainted and was dragged to the water by some one and saved. In the morning she learned that her sister was burned. One old man, after the fire abated, was found so burned in the side that his entrails hung out. His hands and face were horribly burned, and he begged piteously for some one to kill him and put an end to his misery.

WHO DID IT?—The Democratic State ticket in this county, had about 385 majority. If all the straight Democrats had voted for Kelly he would have been elected. What is the use of Democratic papers talking about Republicans doing it? The simple fact is, that the Democrats went back on an Irish candidate, because he was an Irishman. It is a plain case, and all Irishmen understand it.—Gazette and Bulletin.

THE old Confederate powder works at Augusta, Ga., which were surpassed in size or perfection of equipment by none in the world, have been lying idle since the war, fast going to ruin. They have now been purchased by a company who intend to put them to their original use. They were confiscated by the government at the close of the war, and their purchase would have to be made of the United States authorities. It does not seem at all probable that they would permit them to be used as powder works again.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

A BOLD HARPER.

Harper never struck a nobler key or drew a finer contrast than in the following:

COLUMBIA SPEAKS.

What craven fools! has't come to this, that a mob can overawe
The guardians of my children's rights, my servants clothed with law?
That they should weekly truckle, when they should be most strong,
So recreant to the cause of right, and only brave in wrong?

Abject and weak! ye trembled when firm ye should have stood,
And linked your hands in those of men whose hands are swift to blood;
Your very slaves and tools in wrong your masters have become;
They raised the sword above your head, and you were meek and dumb!

Traitors to law and Me, arise, and to the rearward stand;
It is not fit that they should rule who fear a mob's command,
But first the lesson learn that I am here to teach—
The rights of all my children shall be the rights of each!

The lowliest and the weakest have rights must be protected;
The rights of all within the law by all must be respected;
Columbia knows no difference of race, creed, or condition;
No chain upon the conscience here of State or Inquisition!

But oh, my children, native here, or seeking here a home,
From Old-World tyranny and wrong, whenever ye may come,
Can ye not learn to blend in peace, a free and happy nation,
And differ but as freemen may, with generous toleration?

The land is broad enough for all, the laws are framed to bless,
Strong to protect the rights of all, and never to oppress;
And if the rights of one may be by many trampled down,
We might as well go back to lords and ruler with a crown.

And you, if still your craven hearts can feel a manly throb,
Learn toleration don't include submission to a mob;
Go, gather up your scattered wits, and ever, from this day,
Remember that my motto is, "Give each and all fair play."

A Few Notes Concerning Newspapers.

An essay on "The Press," hot from the angry pen of Wendell Phillips who has been goaded by the Tribune into replying to its recent attacks on him, prompts us to say a few words about journalism.

We believe in the press. That is, we believe in it just as in the pulpit or the bar. Not that either the bar, the pulpit, or the press, is in any wise a model of excellence. On the contrary, each is wretchedly below its true ideal. Nevertheless, each, in its different way, is of incalculable influences on mankind. As in St. Paul's trinity of virtues the greatest is charity, so in this trinity of influences the greatest is journalism. It is the literature of the million. One man in a hundred reads a book; ninety-nine in a hundred a newspaper. Nearly a century ago, when the American press, which is now a spreading oak, was in its green twig. Thomas Jefferson said that he would rather live in a country with newspapers and without a government, than in a country with a government but without newspapers. The press, instead of being the fourth, is the first estate of the realm.

Now what ethics shall govern it?

The press is guilty of three cardinal faults;—lack of truthfulness, lack of generosity, and lack of courage;—and to lack either of these is a crime against the good genius of a Christian age.

Take these criticisms singly. The press wields a careless pen. Mr. Phillips touches this point thus: "Here," he says, "is a "popular Monthly. It opens with an article criticising Reforms, written by "one of the foremost of our scholars and "gentlemen. He would be ashamed to "misquote Plato, and would cheerfully "spend a week in searching rather than "misstate an incident in the life of Goe"the. But here he flings about asser"tions, careless of their truth and too in"different to inquire. He does not seem "to think that the babble of the press "comes within the rules which bind "scholars and gentlemen."

Add now to Mr. Phillips's criticism another, namely, the press's lack of generosity. Perhaps a better word would be fraternity. Metropolitan journalism has grown acrid with professional jealousies. The Herald, the Tribune, the Times, and the World are unbrotherly and heartless toward each other. They never sympathize with, but always sneer at, each other's triumphs. Run back through the journalistic sensations of the metropolitan press for the last four or five years. Take the Tribune's Prussian War Correspondence—as great a victory as the war itself; and yet that journal's three metropolitan rivals inwardly marvelled at, and outwardly belittled, those superb dispatches. Take the World's gallant demand in 1868 that Frank Blair, its own party candidate for the vice-presidency, should disencumber the ticket by withdrawing from it; and yet the neighboring newspapers, instead of applauding the protest as an honor to independent journalism, affected to despise and busily caricatured it. Take the Herald's interviews with Napoleon and the Pope—a clear "beat"; and yet the three other dogs, because they did not get this bone, denied that there was any meat on it. Take the Times's brilliant battle with the Tammany Ring; and one sees with regret that the other daillies, instead of giving a ringing cheer, have nothing but silent envy. Now this policy of jealousy among journalists destroys the public spirit which should characterize journalism.

But the crowning (or rather the discrowning) vice of the press is cowardice. Andrew Johnson drank himself red in the forehead on the morning of his inauguration, and staggered drunkenly into the Senate chamber to swear his maudlin oath; and yet every Republican journal in New York the next day suppressed the fact. Richard Connolly and Oakey Hall have just been proven by their own handwriting the Jack Sheppards and Dick Turpins of their day, and yet every Democratic journal in New York is attempting to cover their infamy and gild their crime. Thus do newspapers give up to party what is meant for mankind. Now if this be journalism, heaven save us from winning its successes or wearing its honors.

Did we not say that the press is the first estate of the realm? There are five thousand journals in America. They ought to be, every one, a tongue of fire—instead of which, for the most part, their pages are a handful of ashes. Subserviency to party is the canker of the press. An editor whose sheet is mortgaged to the State Convention, or whose conscience is lodged in an envelope and filled away in a pigeon-hole of the White House, has abdicated journalism.

Generally, too, when a journalist shuts the door of his office behind him to take a seat in Congress, his pure flame of first-love for his profession is gone—he has slighted his wife for a mistress. Of course journalists have as much eligibility of official station as other men, and more knowledge of its requirements than many. But a man cannot be at the same time a judge and an advocate, neither can he be an editor and a politician. Imagine Mr. Gladstone to be at the same time the Premier of England and the editor of the London Times. What would be the value of that journal's opinion of that statesman's policy?

The late Mr. Raymond was, by nature, one of the best of editors—just and honest. But, having a political ambition, he went first to the Philadelphia Convention where he threw away one-half the influence of the Times, and then to Congress where he threw away the other. It is a significant fact that a young man, a stranger from a foreign land, unknown in this city, except to his journalistic associates and local friends, has, by pure professional skill, lately restored that journal to a prestige which it lost, not by Mr. Raymond's death, but by Mr. Raymond's more fatal policy during the few years just preceeding it.

Now let us take the purpose and spirit of The Golden Age. This journal, holding intense, positive, and extreme views of its own, is for this reason all the more anxious to be fair toward everybody who holds an opposite faith. To this end, we have a special department (styled "The Free Parliament") in which we give a full hearing to every current theory, whether in religion, politics, society, art, literature, or elsewhere. This idea is unique, but it was an innovation sadly needed in journalism. No reader of the Tribune gets the truth concerning the Democratic party; for Democrats do not speak through that journal's columns. Nor does any reader of the World get the truth concerning the Republican party; for Republicans have no hospitality in its pages. So, in the religious press, the Roman Catholic and Protestant, the Orthodox and heterodox journals, utter each their own catchwords, and print no reply. The Golden Age, on the contrary, opens its columns to all opinions; it gives a hearing to all parties; it has a welcome for all creeds. And if such is not a nobler idea of journalism than generally prevails, then we have mistaken our calling. We have absolute faith in the justice and expediancy of this policy. It ought to be the theory not of one newspaper alone, but of the whole press. Such a course, if steadfastly and rigidly pursued—and particularly if pursued by the great metropolitan dailies—would create a new art of printing. For it would exhibit journalism fulfilling its threefold function—namely, proclaiming the whole truth, in a catholic spirit, and with moral courage.

Deal Gently.

What a world of happiness and love this would be, were we all to obey this simple command! A few words of love and kindness are more sure to guide the erring in the path of right, than a lifetime of harsh dealing. Sister, deal gently with an erring brother, for the kind words of a loving sister are sweeter far than music in a brother's ear. Brother, listen and obey the commands of a loved sister. If you are traveling in the downward path, I admonish you, hear the gentle words of a sister. Her words may fall unheeded now, but perhaps when the voice of that loved one is hushed, when she can no longer plead with you, her gentle and loving admonitions will haunt you day and night, and the pleasure you sought for will not be found until you seek and travel in the path that she has pointed out to you.

I have often thought, were wives to deal more gently with their husbands, and husbands to treat their wives in a like manner, there would be thousands of happy homes where now misery reigns. Should it be the lot of any young lady to be wedded to an intemperate husband, deal gently, for you will never reclaim him from the paths of vice by dealing harshly.

For the Republican.

MR. EDITOR.—We have had several special occasions up here in Huston tp., since my last report. The Baptist churches composing the Centre association, held their annual meeting with the Bald Eagle Baptist Church. Said meeting convened in the new meeting house of the said church, near Martha Furnace, on the 30th ult. On the same evening the house was dedicated to the service of Almighty God, with appropriate ceremonies. The Association held three sessions daily on Wednesday and Thursday, and adjourned on Thursday evening. The meeting house referred to above, has just been completed, and is an ornament to the place. It is not a Solomons Temple, neither is it one of those modern palaces, such as your rich churches of Bellefonte and other places, have to worship in. But it is a neat wooden structure, 40x50 feet with basement room, and audience chamber. In a word, the house reflects credit on the building committee, and is good enough for us to worship in, for it is the heart that God looks to, not the outward surroundings. The Methodists have been holding a series of meetings in a grove on the farm of the Messrs. Wilsons, of Bellefone, now occupied by John Fugate, Esq., at which several conversions have taken place. We understand said meeting has been attended nightly by a number of men, or things in the shape of men and boys, under the influence of liquid insanity, and have annoyed the meeting, and counteracted much good that might have been done. When will such persons learn how low they place themselves in the estimation of the well disposed portion of the community, for being guilty of such low and infamous conduct, and I would say just here, for the benefit of those concerned, have we not houses of worship sufficient to hold meetings in, especially in the night time, so we would not give rowdies such a chance to annoy us. If we have not, it is high time we would erect them.

On the 9th ult., the Sunday School of this vicinity had a grand rally in the shape of a Sunday School celebration, held in the grove above referred to. The weather was beautiful as could be desired. At an early hour in the day, Sunday school scholars, Unionville Cadets, Sellers Zouaves, and miscellaneous, amounting in all to about sixteen hundred souls, were assembled near the grove. Here they were formed in line of procession by the Chief Marshal, J. S. Thompson and his Assistant, the military in advance with two martial bands. In this order they were marched to the stand, and listened to an address by the Rev. Mr. Cleaver. He told the little boys and girls how to catch monkeys. By the by would it not be better when we talk to children to speak of realities, rather than tell fictitious stories, that any intelligent child of ten years will not believe. Mr. Cleaver did not get through with his speech however, till dinner was announced and he had to cut it off short.

When we arrived at the table we found it groaning beneath a load of substantials and delicacies, gotten up in as good style as the most fastidious could desire. But here ensued a scene that my pen fails to describe, a scene that I hope for the credit of the few that enacted it, I may never see reenacted. Hogs, yes Mr. Editor, I cannot call them by a more appropriate name, I do not mean the Sunday school scholars, nor the military, but I do mean a few of the chaps that I have termed miscellaneous. I do mean those few things in the shape of men, that were under the influence of liquid insanity, and acted as though the dinner was prepared for their especial benefit. I saw some of this class grab whole roast fowls, pies, cakes and anything they could get their hands on and run away from the tables and in a short time be back for more, such dastardly conduct a hog would scarcely be guilty of. By reason of this, some got nothing to eat, whilst others gormandized and wasted. After dinner we were marched to the stand to hear another address, but it soon leaked out that there was a battle to be fought between the Zouaves and Cadets, which was all a sham, I mean it was a sham battle that was to be fought. The Zouaves were seen marching across the fields and filing into the woods, soon the Cadets were seen marching across in the same direction. Then out came the skirmish line from the Zouaves, and falling flat on the earth opened fire on the Cadets, but the Cadets like the Americans at the battle of Bunkerhill reserved their fire, and kept advancing on the skirmish line, and finally opened fire, and made a charge. The Zouaves up and to their heels, and retreated back on the line of battle, who when the Cadets came in range, opened on them along the whole line and the Cadets retreated in turn. And so they had it in turn, advancing and retreating for some time. It was a beautiful sight, as they were on a hillside and in plain view of the multitude below. I would say, just here, to the Unionville Cadets, that if you ever get into a real battle, take more amunition with you. After this skirmish was ended we went back to the stand, and heard a short address delivered by the Rev. Mr. Hughs, of Bellefonte, after which we dispersed and went to our homes, well pleased with the general features of the occasion.

Forthe Republican.

The Reasons Why Marriages Are Becoming Less Frequent.

A vast amount of the careless morality of the presant day is owing to the way in which women dress. There is no cavilling at the fact or pretending to ignore it, but the moderately dressed wife or mother is fast disappearing from our homes. The domestic daughter has long since become a myth, and in her stead we have a creature of hair and humps—in some respects camel-like, wasp-hipped, grecian bended, high-heeled, chignoned young lady, who laughs loud and talks fast, and writes herself "Sallie" or "Julie," and who is a complete success in doing nothing, and knowing nothing, except the slang literation of the day.

The reason why young men do not marry, is because girls ceased to be domestic, and spend a great deal of money upon dress, they are not contented to live in a quiet way and dress moderately; they must go out, dress and ride and frequent places of amusement; have suppers and boquets and receive adulation. It costs a great deal of money, which the young man furnishes, and the result is he never gets ahead enough to marry; so they repent, and try their luck over again. It is the easiest thing in the world to do with less luxury, but it involves a little self sacrifice and economy, and these virtues are fast becoming exotics.

Fully one-half of the young girls who are now filling situations in stores, offices, &c., go there in the first place in order to dress better, they live in plain but comfortable homes, and must help with the house work or the children of their own kin; but they hear glowing accounts of the city; they want the finery that is denied them, and they want to go from those peaceful homes, from the kind guardianship of parents, to the toil and temptation of the ten hour system.

They go plain country girls, with modest, blushing cheeks and smooth, shining hair. They stay there a year or two, and their cheeks are pale and their hair is frizzed. They have lost the gaucherie of blushing, and are bad at repartee. They dress somehow and live somehow; but they have hours of despondency that make them old. It is one long struggle with labor and temptation, and how they preserve their integrity God only knows.

Now, would not these girls be happier as the wives of farmers and mechanics? Would not one word of genuine love outweigh a ton of admiration? Would not the smile of a little child be a thousand times better than the gaze of the liberten? Is it not easier to work for one's own, than for strangers? To feel that you are King in your own castle if it be but a one-story cottage?

Woman's independence will work her a deadlier wrong than any bond she has ever borne. When she steps beyond the fair threshold of womanly power, archetypal home, where God has made her supreme, to fight the demons of political or commercial life, she lays down a sceptre to take up a chain whose iron canker will eat into her soul.

LEVITICUS.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

Connecticut, North Carolina, California, Colorado, Montana, Maine, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Iowa—all, all Republican by sweeping majorities. What does it all mean? The Baltimore American answers the question. It means that the administration of President Grant gives general satisfaction to the people in spite of all that has been said against it. It is felt to be sound, honest, economical and useful—and is therefore satisfactory. The elections also mean that the people of this Union do not yet trust the Democratic leaders, and do not mean to let them get into power. All their new departures and other changes of front appear to be of little avail. The nearer they come to acquiescence in Republican principles, the more they condemn their own record; and when they attempt new disguises without any recantation of past errors, they but add hypocrisy to incousistency, and supply the people with new causes of distrust. Besides with the Tammany Hall developments in New York, and the still rampant Ku Kluxism at the South, what could the nation expect from the ascendency of such a party in the way of either purity or peace, economy or order? At all events, and whatever the controlling reasons may be, the people actually seem to have come to the conclusion, unanimous enough for all practical purposes, to let the Democracy tarry in Jericho for a considerable while longer.

WHAT FOLLY!—The drunkard is the most pitiable object in the creation. Losing, by intemperance, his natural spirits, he flies to artificial stimulants to recruit them. Each dose, like a slow poison, brings him nearer his end, while the folly that has taken possession of him still draws him, with the fascinating power of the rattlesnake, along the fatal path, till the sure follower of intemperance—an untimely death—carries him off, scarcely lamented by his nearest connections. He leaves the world in which he has been useless, almost as helpless and as ignorant as he entered it.

Pro Bona Publico.

To the Editor of the Pittsburg Commercial:

The death of Thos. Morgan Silvey, by cholera morbus, reminds me of four cases of the same disease that I attended in May, 1831. I was then a young practitioner, having been qualified physician and surgeon in March, 1828, and was practicing in Beauport, a beautiful village opposite Quebec, Canada. One morning I was called to attend, at their repective residences, four men from thirty to forty years of age. When I arrived at their houses I found them lying on the floor in the lowest degree of prostration, much exhausted by vomiting and purging, coldness of the skin, and cramps at the lower extremeties. I immediately prepared an emetic (three grains of antimonium tarta eisatum,) which they took according to my direction; in the afternoon the four patients were convalescent. Here is the place to remark that my treatment was very much according to the homeopathic principles, minus its diminutive doses—though the word homeopathic and its doctrine were not yet known. Similia Similibus Curantur.

I mention those cases on account of the bold treatment I adopted. In 1832, when the Asiatic cholera made its appearance on this side of the Atlantic, I had my share of attendance of that disease, as also in other years that the cholera made its appearance. One morning in June, 1832, when the disease was making its worst ravages, being unwell, I took an emetic, which had its effect in a few hours; but by ten o'clock I was called to attend not only a cholera case, but was requested to put in his coffin a man who had died the previous night of the disease, as nobody would come near the house, the consternation being so great that panic had seized everybodyt Even his own son had deserted the house. I complied with his wishes, and followed the body as far as the cemetery, having previously put him in a hay cart. He had died in the hands of another physician. This was a very bold attemp of mine, having taken the emetic a few hours before; but it had its reward. I considered this medicine a preventive of the cholera. The last time that this plague visited the United States, I was in Rochester, New York. I then published some remarks in the Rochester Advertiser on the efficacy of emetics in the treatment of the cholera, and also attended several cases with complete success. My remarks were published in a Kingston paper, and from thence found their way into the London papers. Since then the emetic has been generally used in that city, as I see by an account in Braithwait, volume 52, page 274.

If this formidable plague visits Pittsburgh, I hope to be able to publish a few remarks on my experience with this disease.

I respectfully submit to the medical profession of Pittsburgh my treatment in common cholera morbus, and also the few lines on emetic in asiatic cholera.

F. XAVIER DEROLETTE.

FOR YOUNG MEN.—The thing for every young man to strive for, if he be ambitious of pecuniary success in this world, is a specialty in his business. No matter what trade or profession he may choose, let him adopt some particular branch or department of it in which to render himself famous. He may then render himself necessary to those who employ his service, and thus receive his own price for that which he does particularly well. Without this special superiority, he comes into competition with the great mediocracy, and must expect a mediocre compensation only in return. The pleasant eminence of excellence, however, is not to be gained by wishing merely. It requires good hard work, and plenty of it. The world does not pay people for being idle, nor for that which is idly done. There is labor to be done after they are learned, and the beginner should never flinch from it, for it is only by his own exertions that he can attain the specialty that is to bring him future honors, and better yet, future gold.

IT IS DARK.—It is dark when the honest and honorable man sees the result of years swept cruelly away by the knavish and heartless adversary. It is dark when he feels the clouds of sorrow gathered round, and knows that the hopes and happiness of others are fading with his own. But in that hour the memory of the past integrity will be a true consolation, and assure him even here on earth of gleams of light of heaven. It is dark when the voice of that sweet child, once fondly loved, is no more heard in murmurs. Dark when the pattering feet no more resound without the threshold, or ascend, step by step, the stairs. Dark when some well-known air recalls the strains once often attuned to a childish voice now hushed in death. Darkness—but only the gloom which now heralds the daysprings of immortality and the infinite light of heaven.

MR. BRIGGS, of Yuba City, California, is the owner of land planted in the castor bean, from which he has this season manufactured 7,000 gallons of suncured castor oil for the San Francisco market.

CHICAGO and America will long have cause to remember England's noble response to the appeal for help telegraphed across the water on those memorable days when thousands were being left homeless and destitute by fire. Our aid to the suffering people of Lancashire has been well repaid through the zeal of the English classes, both high and low. The subscriptions to the Relief Fund, a despatch announces, continue to pour in from all directions.—Phila Press.

THE ELECTION.

The late election is another evidence that the people of the United States continue devoted to the great principles of Reform, Progress and Republican Equality. The Democratic party has proved itself without cohesion, energy or public confidence. The leaders worked with desperation to force the rank and file into line; but in vain; and the consequence has been a hopeless and ignoble defeat. In three great States of Pennsylvania, Ohio and Iowa, the majority is scarcely less than one hundred thousand; enough for all practical purposes—enough to show the will of the people—a majority more likely to promote the harmony, integrity and efficiency of the party than one three times as large. It dooms all the hopes and expectations of the democracy at the next Presidential Election, and foreshadows the dangers which await the party even in the City and State of New York in November next. No one would be surprised to see that State fall into the Republican line.

The verdict of Tuesday last clearly signifies that the people have no confidence in the professions or practices of the Democratic party. They dread a restoration of its power. And well they may. The Republicans are not faultless. In so many years of power it was not in human nature not to commit some mistakes; to err is human; bad and designing men are always sure to dupe the most honestly disposed Administration and to gain unmerited confidence. Hence there have been defalcations and breaches of trust—in defiance of the honest purposes and vigilance of the President and his heads of department. The people have made allowance for these things, and judged according to the great purposes of the Republican party. They have approved and therefore endorsed at the polls—the ability and honesty of a Republican Congress and Executive, and their efforts to complete the reconstruction of the States; the safety of life and property in the South as well as North; the education and elevation of the Freedmen; the overthrow of the Ku Klux reign of terror; the reduction of national taxes; the payment of the national debt and the preservation of a sound currency; and above all, the 13th, 14th and 15th Amendments of the Constitution of the U. S., whereby the great doctrines of Liberty and Equality, without distinction of color or condition, are made universal. These are the questions upon which the people have acted; and they may now be considered settled, if not forever, at least until another election shall give them an opportunity of revising their opinion.

As we said above the Elections declare the people have no confidence in the democratic party. They want no change, and least of all such a change as they would bring us. In the South—in New York—wherever the democracy has had power—the result has been pillage and violence. While violence has been perpetrated by the rebel desperadoes in the South, riot and robbery have been fostered in New York. Within a few months several hundred Irishmen were killed and wounded in a riot in that City, while it has been plundered of untold millions of money. The democratic visitation has scarcely a parallel except in the great calamity at Chicago. In Pennsylvania, too, the people have declared their surfeit of democracy. A fraudulent majority in the Senate enabled that party last winter to coerce legislation for its own purposes. It created a "dead-lock" which lasted several weeks at an expense of thousands of dollars, in order to force an apportionment bill which would secure "justice to the democratic party." Well—the people have passed upon their action, and the party has got "justice" in a loss of both branches of the Legislature. Thus justice has been swift.

We will not extend remarks on a result so auspicious, and in which Chester county is entitled to a full share of the glory.—From the Village Record.

THE KU-KLUX REIGN OF TERROR.

SYNOPSIS OF A PORTION OF THE TESTIMONY TAKEN BY THE CONGRESSIONAL INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE.

No. II.

MISSISSIPPI CONTINUED.

Hon. Joshua S. Morris, Jackson, Attorney General of Mississippi, (native of Tennessee and resident of Mississippi for the last twenty years,) testifies that there is a prejudice against Northern men which is "very natural after such a war" and that this prejudice is intensified and sometimes grows into hostility and persecution when a Northern man interferes with politics adversely to the views of the people by whom he is surrounded But if he is a Democrat, or does not interfere with politics, they treat him well, or "passably well. at least." Witness thinks this prejudice is fostered by leading Democratic politicians. He has been present at public meetings where Republican speakers were subjected to insult or violence.

Two teachers from the eastern part of the State came to Jackson to complain to witness and the Governor of outrages which had been perpetrated upon them by armed and disguised bands of men, "who had beaten and maltreated them to such an extent that they could not continue their schools." Witness has never heard of any one being molested or threatened except Republicans.

The next witness is Cornelius McBride. He opened a colored school in 1870, about three miles south of Sparta, in Chickasaw county. In March last there was a raid made by the Ku Klux over several counties in that part of the State, and a number of school houses were burned; but having commenced his school with the general consent of the white people of the neighborhood, witness felt secure, and continued teaching. On Thursday night, during the last week in March, the house where he was boarding was surrounded by Ku Klux. He jumped through a window and ran for his life, being fired at several times. He concealed himself in a negro cabin, but was dragged out and taken to a field about half a mile from the house, being struck several times on the way thither with the flat of bowie knives and the butt end of a pistol. His shirt (the only garment he had on) was then torn off, and two men held him down while a third commenced lashing him with black gum switches. One hundred and seventy-five lashes were administered, and they threatened then to hang him. He saw a rope suspended from a tree near by, and, concluding they meant to execute their threat, darted away, the shot whizzing past him as he ran. He made his escape, however, without further injury, and a few days later left the neighborhood. These men charged him with laboring "to make the niggers the equals of the whites," saying, "G—d d—n you, don't you know that this is a white man's country?" They informed him that they were not going to allow such a thing as a colored school in the county. Witness had voted with the Republican party and had advised colored people to vote so, but had never taken an active part in politics.

Witness knew of several other teachers who were shot at.

An old man named Burt Moore, a Southern man, had opened a colored school as a means of earning a support for himself and family. A notice was placed on the school house door as follows: "Mr. Burt Moore, we do not want to hurt you, but you must stop teaching this school." He did not heed the warning, and the school house was burned down. This was in February last, and occurred about three miles from where witness was teaching.

A teacher in Okalona, whose name witness does not remember, was forced to leave his school.

Witness says there was no fault alleged against any of these teachers save that of teaching colored schools. He says: "The people object to them [i. e., the colored schools] on the ground that they own the property, and that they have to pay to keep lazy niggers at school—I use their own expression—and they say they are determined not to pay for educating people that they don't believe in educating."

Two other school houses besides Moore's were burned in Chickasaw county.

The animosity to the colored schools attaches itself to the entire free school system, of which these form a part, and the Ku Klux accordingly threatened to whip every teacher of a free school (white schools as well as black) in the entire county.

The same witness testifies to the following additional cases of outrages, which occurred in the same section:

Parson Murff, a presiding elder in the M. E. Church South, held a position as school director in Winston county, and was forced to resign by threats against his life.

Rev. John Avery, teacher of a white free school in Winston county, was threatened with death and his school house burned. He was a Southern man and a minister of the M. E. Church South. The order in Winston county was to "put down every free school;" and witness does not believe there is a single free school open in the county.

"The information is that they are all closed."

In Louisville, Winston county, a colored man named Coleman, a sober and industrious man, was whipped for having bought 80 acres of land. Coleman told witness of a number of colored men in the same county who had been whipped for the same offense.

A colored man named William Miller was whipped for not raising his hat to a white man.

Addy Foster (colored) was whipped in Winston county for buying land.

Aleck Hughes, Noxubee county, whipped for threatening to sue a white man for $17 which the latter owed him. After whipping he was hung up by the neck until he became insensible.

Zach Job and Henry Leadbetter, Noxubee county, whipped by disguised men in March, 1871.

George Shubb, Fanny Honeysuckle, and a Mr. Campbell, were all whipped in one Ku Klux raid near Corinth.

Witness thinks the prevailing hostility to the free school system is not on account of its cost, but because it enables the colored people to get an education, which most of them could not get under a pay system. The present system is spoken of as "a d—d Radical free school system."

Witness believes half the white men in Chickasaw county belong to the Ku Klux Klan. Those who whipped him told him there was 5,000,000 of them in the United States. The sympathy of men of standing and property with the Ku Klux is plainly exhibited in their readiness to go bail when any of them get into trouble. In the case of the twenty-eight men indicted at Oxford for the murder of Aleck Page, the citizens held a relief meeting, and "took them beds and chairs and playing cards, and all that." It would be "sheer nonsense to talk about prosecuting any one for Ku Klux outrages in the State courts."

Witness testifies that the colored people in the part of the county where he lived are in great fear of the Ku Klux, and would not dare to vote in an election.

AMERICAN MANUFACTURER AND TRADE OF THE WEST.

This is the name of an excellent paper published in Pittsburgh, Pa., by MacConnell, Woods & Co., Publishers, Charles McKnight & David Lowry, Editors. It is a paper that every business man or manufacturer should have. It is indeed a great paper. In speaking of "Our Newspaper Consolidation," the Editors say:

In the last week in August the two manufacturing papers of Pittsburgh—the American Manufacturer's Review and the Trade of the West—were consolidated, the new paper to be hereafter known as the American Manufacturer and Trade of the West. The former weekly has been well known to the whole manufacturing trade of the country for two years back. The latter was a Pittsburgh trade paper, of wide circulation and popularity, of some ten years standing in this city, and for all that time constantly employed by our best manufacturing houses. The new paper has now four experienced editors and writers; is possessed of abundance of capital; has a more extended and more widely distributed circulation among all classes of wholesale dealers and consumers of metals than any paper of its class in the country, and is as strong, stylish and valuable a class journal as can be found in the world. Advertisers are not only invited but urged to examine our mail lists, and our system of bringing them face to face, as it were, with the whole western and south-western trade. The closer the scrutiny the greater the assurance.

WORSE AND WORSE.

THE LOS ANGELOS HORROR WORSE THAN FIRST REPORTED—IRISHMEN BOAST MURDERING CHINESE—THEIR QUARTERS PLUNDERED.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 27.—The latest details of the Los Angelos horror is worse than at first. The mob appears to be actuated solely by animosity against the race and a desire to plunder. The witnesses before the Coroner's jury are giving testimony with apparent reluctance, under fear of retaliation. The testimony implicates Irishmen as having boasted assisting in killing Chinese. The Chinaman who shot officer Beldard was arrested and turned over to the authorities by the Chinese themselves, and is now in jail. Seven of the parties were arrested From $14,000 to $30,000 in money and all valuables belonging to the Chinese were carried off by the mob. Even those arrested were robbed on the way to jail.

The accident on the Central Pacific yesterday has not resulted in any deaths as yet. None of the passengers injured were residents of the East.

POLITICAL.

RESULT OF THE TEXAS ELECTION.

GALVESTON, October 27.—In the Third District returns from different counties give Gedding 411 majority The count at Austin, by throwing out Limestone, Freestone county, which gave a Democratic majority of 1,630, leaves Clark's (Rep.) majority 497. A special to the Bulletin says: Clark has received a certificate of election. O'Connor is the only Democrat who will receive a certificate of election. Degener, Radical, refuses to accept a certificate, on the ground that Hancock received a majority of the votes.

A MR. CROSEMAN, of Huron county, Michigan, awoke one night from a great dream of peace to find a swarm of little busy bees in bed with him. They had taken possession of the sleeves and other dependencies of his shirt, and were making themselves sociable. He vacated that linen with alacrity.

WASHINGTON.

A $60,000 Swindle Unearthed.

Ex-Congressman Stokes Arrested.

Other Parties to be Apprehended.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 26, 1871.

On the 24th of July, 1870, Congressman Stokes, in conjunction with other members of the Tennessee delegation, and a strong Sounthern lobby, succeeded in getting a bill through Congress for the relief of Captain Beatty and his company of one hundred and two men, known as the "Independent Tennessee Rangers." It was claimed that this was an irregular organization of Tennessee volunteers, who had rendered invaluable service in behalf of the Union, and this act granted them the usual government bounties, pay and emolument from June, 1862, to April, 1865, the same to be allowed by the Second Auditor of the Treasury upon the presentation of the proper papers. After his term in Congress expired, Stokes was very busy in getting the accounts of this company settled. About three weeks since, the attention of certain officials was called to irregularities in bounty claims for this company which were presented for payment at the Second Auditor's office. Detectives were at once put on the track, and they succeeded in unearthing certain facts with regard to the pretended claims which showed a systematic attempt to swindle the Government. It was found that Beatty's company never enlisted over fifty men, and that one-half this number never rendered any military aid to the Government whatever. The rest of the claim never existed, save on paper.

It was also found that a clerk in the Second Auditor's office, named Victor S. Powell, and who prepared all the bounty papers relating to this company, was acting in collusion with Stokes and several other prominent parties to practice this imposition upon the Treasury. Powell was arrested this morning and Stokes this evening, and both placed under bonds of $15,000. A. J. Meigs, clerk of the Supreme Court, went bail for Stokes. Detectives are now operating in Tennessee, and their arrest is momentarily expected. The amount involved in these swindles is $60,000.

MAGAZINES, &C.

Sparkling and bright, witty and wise, instructive and interesting, is "Ballou's Magazine" for November. It has a spirited tale of adventure in China, quite a number of illustrated articles and several excellent stories, the whole making the contents of this popular magazine more select and interesting than any other serial in this country. It is brimful of information, and just what is wanted in the family circle. To give a list of its contents would require one-half column of our paper, but we would say that its many pages are filled with none but the choicest of reading matter. Ballou's Magazine is only 15 cents per copy, or $1.50 per year. Published by Thomes & Talbot, 63 Congress Street, Boston; and we would remind our readers that now is the time to think of getting up clubs for this popular magazine.

THE MONTHLY NOVELETTE FOR NOVEMBER.—This magazine is so different from any other magazine in the country that it is a specialty. It contains only the most interesting reading matter, and is not filled with dull essays and reviews The November number of The Monthly Novelette is especially rich in stories and romances, poetry and verses of rare merit. Here is a list of contents, so all can see what it contains:—"Mother and Daughter;" "Then and Now;" "Asleep on Picket;" "The Fourfold Aspect;" "Harry Bolton's Curacy;" "Jinkin's Joke;" "Nettie's Thanksgiving;" "The Loss of my Spectacles;" "The Last Victim of the Scottish Maiden;" "Agnes;" "A Few Days on Pitcairn's Island;" "Women's Proper Place in Society;" "The Witch Mark;" "From California to Niagara;" OUR JUVENILE DEPARTMENT.—'A False Step; or, The Fortunes and Misfortunes of Fred Wilder;" "Harry's Coon;" "How the Doctor was crippled;" "Anecdotes—Wit and Humor." It is only 20 cents per copy, and sample copies are sent on receipt of 15 cents. Published by Thomes & Talbot, 63 Congress Street, Boston.

THE Household Magazine for November, is on our table, and is certainly a capital number. Articles from the pens of the most eminent authors of our land grace the pages of this magazine. The November number is unsurpassed in excellence.

The music is by W. T. Giffe, and is a charming little song entitled "Waiting By the River." Address S. S. Wood & Co., Newburgh, N. Y. who will mail three numbers of the magazine, free, including November.

ENLARGED AND BEAUTIFIED.—The Great Family Paper for Half a Century. On the occasion of entering upon its Fifty-First year, the "Saturday Evening Post" comes to us greatly enlarged, and in a complete suit of new type Fifty years is a long time in the life of a paper, and the "Post" may well be proud of its long and honorable career. The "Post" makes now a New Departure, enlarging its size Fully One-Third, and claims to be the Largest and Cheapest of the Family Papers. It also leads off with a new Revolutionary Story, called "Agnes Ayre, a Tale of the Times of Sumter and Marion."

The "Post" takes ground against the low and corrupting stories now becoming so common, and pledges itself to the publication of a Pure Literature, such as any man may take with safety into the bosom of his family. It also pledges itself to Entire Neutrality in Politics. Price $2,50 a year. Four copies $6,00. Eight (and one extra) $12,00. The Post and the Lady's Friend $4,00. Single number 6 cents. Address H. Peterson & Co., 319 Walnut St., Philadelphia.

THE PHRENOLOGICAL JOURNAL.—One of the very few Magazines which are published at the present day for the radical benefit of readers,—is represented on our table by its November number The contents should interest every live member of our community. The following are particularly interesting. James McCosh, President of Princeton College; A Man among Men; Spiritual Presence; The Educated Man in American Society; Alex'r H. Stephens; Thoughts on Phrenology; The Tagals and Visayans; Healthy or Diseased Children; "Fill up the (Mental) Measure;" Pre-historic Man; The Boa Constrictor; Consumption; His Recommendations or the Boy who got a situation; etc The publisher offers the last three numbers of 1871 free as a premium to subscribers for 1872. Terms $3 a year, Single Nos. 30 cts. S. R. WELLS, 389 B'way, N. Y.

THE "Illustrated Christian Weekly," published at 150 Nassau-street, New York, offer for ten new subscribers with the money, $20, to send the beautiful chromo 'ASKING A BLESSING,' postpaid by mail, free of charge to any address. This chromo, the regular price of which is $7 50, is 20 by 15 inches in size, and is an exact reproduction in colors of the original oil painting by Prof. Jordan.

That Horrible Night.

Years ago, the quiet people of the East were greatly excited over the prospect of sudden wealth opened up to them by the then almost unknown West. Many left behind their wives, their houses, their land, their all, in the search after the new El Dorado. Some were successful; but the greater part gained nothing more than a vast number of stories—to tell to a wondering circle of friends, after their return of their adventures in the fruitless attempt at the treasure house of America.

I was not spared by the tide of excitement rolling over the land. Caring nothing for the dust dug from the hills of the Western wilds, I sought only the pleasure to be derived from contact with the Indians of the prairies, and from the adventures which are always to be met with in the life of a frontiersman. Well mounted, and armed with the most approved weapons, I set out upon my journey over land. Many were the adventures with which I met, and which would not be wanting in interest to the reader but I will hasten on. My object is to tell a tale which has ever remained in my mind with peculiar vividness.

I had reached the interior of that part of the Western territory known as Nebraska, and was riding carelessly along one night, unconscious of danger when suddenly a band of savages dashed from the woods with frightful yells. Although surprised, it was but the work of a moment to strike down the foremost Indian, who had seized the horse's bridle. Again my pistol spoke, and another red skin bit the dust; but still they came—fourteen to one. The result of the battle seemed certain only a miracle could save me. To add to my danger my horse became unmanageable, and reared wildly, exposing me to the weapons of the enemy, while I was unable to use my own.

A thought struck me, and leaping quickly from my saddle, in a moment I was safely ensconced in front of a tree, where I could fight with more advantage. Again my spirits rose; savage after savage fell at the crack of my rifle; still, inevitable destruction stared me in the face. They were surrounding me. I could plainly see the shadows of my relentless enemies on each side, while in front death threatened me if I turned. With the desperation of despair, I wheeled suddenly around and sent one more of my enemies to the "happy hunting-grounds," when suddenly the crack of a dozen rifles rent the air, and my rescuers burst upon the scene, killing all the Indians, not one escaping.

I advanced to the leader of the band to thank him for his timely arrival, when wonder of wonders! who should I see but my old friend and chum, Dick Edwards. Never was there a more joyful meeting of friends. A hundred or more questions were asked without either giving an opportunity to have one answered. At length Dick remembered my wounds, and chiding himself for his forgetfulness, assisted me to mount my horse, which had been caught by his party, and, as rapidly as possible, we set off for his home.

On the way I learned that my exchum, from whom I had not heard since I left college, had come West several years before, with his father, mother and sister; that his father had died shortly after their arrival there, and they were now engaged in farming and stock-raising. I further learned that his sister Amelia would be married in a few weeks, to a young frontiersman, James Ruthers.

By the time I arrived at the house I had become so weak that I fainted away. My earliest recollection of returning consciousness, is the sight of the sympathetic face of Amelia bending anxiously over me, restoratives in her hand, while her eyes betrayed the interest which she felt in her brother's friend. Under such care, it is not wonderful that I recovered my health remarkably fast. In a week I was able to be out again, suffering no more serious results from my conflict than an occasional twinge of pain in my left breast where a bullet had lodged. In the meantime, I had accepted the invitation of my friends to remain with them until after the wedding. Swiftly the day approached—oh, how swiftly for I must confess it, I had begun to feel a deeper interest in Amelia than was necessary for a mere friend; I had begun to hate young Ruthers, who was with his intended bride daily, and who appeared to be entirely devoted to her, and she to him.

The evening before the wedding had come. Ah! how well do I remember that night. We were all seated together, talking of everything save that of which our minds were most full. Amelia was arrayed for the usual visit of her James, and was anxiously awaiting his coming. Time passed slowly by; conversation was lagging. The hour for his visit had passed; another hour, and yet another, and still Amelia looked in vain. She paced the room hurriedly, fearing some disaster, what, she dared not imagine.

Tediously the time rolled on, bringing no relief. We tried to encourage her, telling her that he was unavoidably detained, that he would still be here. Our words seemed about to be verified, for a knock was heard at the door.

"He is coming!" was the joyful exclamation of Amelia. The smile returned to her face; the dimples played lovingly about her rosy lips; and casting a rapid look at the mirror that hung in the room, she awaited with impatience the coming of her lover. Alas! how soon was she doomed to disappointment.

Voices were heard in the hall; the door opened, and Dick entered, bearing a note for his sister. She opened it with trembling hands, while we oppressed by a strange foreboding of impending evil, watched anxiously the varyings of her countenance. Suddenly she uttered a piercing cry, and clasping her hands to her heart fell to the floor. Terrified, we rushed to the fainting girl, and used our utmost endeavors to restore her to consciousness, but all in vain. We carried her to her room, and leaving her in the care of her mother, we, Dick and I, returned to the parlor, and examined the note which had so terribly affected the young lady. To our horror and indignation we read:—

"AMELIA:—Forgive me if you can; I have wronged you deeply. I told you I loved you, and I thought I did until lately. Two weeks ago I met another lady, and I loved her passionately. I wed her to morrow. Again, forgive me.

"JAMES."

Though at first moved with anger against so base a betrayal of innocence we were overcome with grief when we thought of the poor sufferer above.

"Amelia has not yet revived," we heard a few moments later.

Morning came slowly to the afflicted household, and with it the knowledge of the fact that the pride of the house was in the greatest danger from a wild raging fever that had seized upon her. Many weeks she lay there, utterly unconscious of all around her, calling, in her wild ravings, upon her recreant lover.

Nine weeks had passed, when, one morning, she awoke again to this world. From this time she improved rapidly. Never a word was uttered, either by herself or her friends, concerning young Ruthers, who might never have been born for all that was said of him in that afflicted family.

I fear you will think my story very tame, after all, for there is little more to tell, except that I gained my wish, and married the fair Amelia, who, I think, entirely forgot her recreant lover. He, poor fellow, repented of his rashness in love matters soon enough, for his wife proved to be a beautiful vixen, while mine always remained a paragon of amiability.

I have never had cause, therefore, to regret the conflict which led me to Amelia, whose tender care of me in sickness first woke for her my love.

The Perils Of A Great City.

The perils to which London pedestrians are exposed are almost as great as those of a line of skirmishers. The battle of the streets has really a mortal meaning, and in the conflict between unarmed passengers and the doubly-armed drivers, the weaker combatants are ridden down without mercy. The losses in killed and wounded last year in the streets which lay outside the city, reach the terrible aggregate of 2,043. This is an average of about thirty-nine people every week, or six persons a day for six busy days of the week, and three or four each Sunday. Of these 2,043 victims, 124 were killed and 1,919 wounded. The worst enemies of pedestrians are the light carts driven by tradesmen's boys and snopmen, which ran over 636 people during the year, and killed 27. Next in deadliness came heavy carts and wagons, which killed 63 and wounded 462. Then carriages and bromghams, by which 248 were injured and 2 killed and the omnibusses which killed 11 and wounded 429. These terrible figures do not include the most crowded part of London. The city has its own catalogue of accidents, which do something to swell the aggregate, though the city is said to be the safety part of London.

BE SOCIAL.—Men who isolate themselves from society, and have near and dear family ties, are the most uncomfortable human beings. Byron says, "Happiness was born a twin;" but the phrase though pretty and poetic, does not go far enough. We are gregarious, and not intended to march through life either single or double file. The man who cares for nobody, and for whom nobody cares, has nothing to live for that will pay for the keeping of soul and body together. You must have a heap of embers to have a glowing fire. Scatter them apart and they will become dim and cold. So to have a brisk, vigorous life, you must have a group of lives, to keep each other warm, as it were, to afford each other mutual encouragement and confidence and support. If you wish to live the life of a man and not of a fungus, be social, be brotherly, be charitable, be sympathetic, and labor earnestly for the good of your kind.

A NEW JERSEY editor has announced the death of his uncle in Australia, leaving him a gold mine and $400.000. His village contemporary professes to regard the matter as a plan cunningly devised to obtain credit for a box of paper collars and a straw hat.

MULTITUDES in their haste to get rich are ruined every year. The men who do things maturely, slowly, deliberately, are the men who oftenest succeed in life. People who are habitually in a hurry generally have to do things twice over.

IT should become our study to narrow as much as possible the neutral ground which stretches its quagmires between truth and falsehood, so that the boundaries of these discordant potentates may be defied.

MEN often escape lightly from the first imprudence, and suffer terribly from its repetition; for folly repeated becomes sin, and sin is always punished. There is no variableness in the government of God.

A HABIT is more powerful than an act; and a previously indulged temper, during the day, will not, it is feared, be fully counteracted by the exercise of a few minutes' devotion at night.

IT is evident that the most worthy efforts often fail, while the worst succeed. This fact alone ought to show the folly of basing an estimate of character on a superficial reconing of results.

IT is a great blunder in the pursuit of happiness not to know that we have got it—that is, not to be content with a reasonable and possible measure of it.

BEAUTY in a modest woman is like fire or a sharp sword at a distance; neither doth the one burn nor the other wound those that come not too close to them.

LOVE, worship, and obedience are due from the creature to the Creator, and are but a feeble recompense for all the good we receive at His hands.

WHEN you see a man with a good deal of religion displayed in his shop window, you may depend upon it he keeps a very small stock of it within.

THINK all you can of the good qualities of others, forget and keep silent concerning their bad qualities.

THE AMERICAN WASHER?
PRICE $5.50
THE AMERICAN WASHER SAVES MONEY, TIME, AND DRUDGERY.

The Fatigue of Washing Day no Longer Dreaded, but Economy, Efficiency, and Clean Clothing, Sure.

In calling public attention to this little machine, a few of the invaluable qualities, (not possessed by any other washing machine yet invented,) are here enumerated.

It is the smallest, most compact, most portable, most simple in construction, most easily operated. A child ten years old, with a few hours' practice, can thoroughly comprehend and effectually use it. There is no adjusting, no screws to annoy, no delay in adapting! It is always ready for use! It is a perfect little wonder! It is a miniature giant, doing more work and of a better quality, than the most elaborate and costly. One half of the labor is fully saved by its use, and the clothes will last one-half longer than by the old plan of the rub board. It will wash the largest blanket. Three shirts at a time, washing thoroughly! In a word, the ablution of any fabric, from a Quilt to a Lace Curtain or Cambric Handkerchief, are equally within the capacity of the LITTLE GEM! It can be fastened to any tub and taken off at will.

No matter how deep rooted a prejudice may exist against Washing Machines, the moment this little machine is seen to perform its wonders, all doubts of its cleansing efficacy and utility are banished, and the doubter and detractor at once becomes the fast friends of the machine.

We have testimonials without end, setting forth its numerous advantages over all others, and from hundreds who have thrown aside the unwieldy, useless machines, which have signally failed to accomplish the object promised in prominent and loud sounding advertisements.

It is as perfect for washing as a wringer is for wringing. The price another paramount inducement to purchasers, has been placed so low that it is within the reach of every housekeeper and there is no article of domestic economy that will repay the small investment so soon.

All that is asked for this GREAT LABOR SAVER, is a fair trial. We guarantee each machine to do its work perfectly.

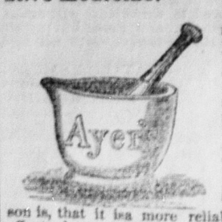
Medical.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

For all the Purpose of a Laxative medicine.



Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use in every county and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill.—The obvious reason is, that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them; those who have not, knows that it cures their neighbors and friends, and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterous drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh, and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions from the stomach' bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, BILLIOUS HEADACHE, SICK HEADACHE, JAUNDICE or GREEN SICKNESS, BILLIOUS COLIC and BILLIOUS FEVERS, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back or Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For DROPSY and DROPSICAL SWELLINGS they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a DINNER PILL, take one or two PILLS to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these PILLS makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

GOLDEN GRAINS.

Thou must be true thyself,
If thou the truth wouldst teach;
Thy soul must overflow, if thou
Another soul wouldst reach;
It needs the overflowing heart
To give the lips full speech.

Think truly, and thy thought
Shall the world's famine feed;
Speak truly, and thy word
Shall be a fruitful seed;
Live truly, and thy life shall be,
A great and noble creed.

Poverty.

A broken-down spendthrift in Meadville gave the following toast at a dinner:

"Here's to poverty—it sticks to us when all friends forsake us." There is truth in this; but how few care to number poverty a nong their friends, and how few, too, labor as dilligently as they should to keep from its unwelcome embraces. The most casual observer cannot fail to note that of the masses around him; there is scarce one in a score who does not appear to be courting the intimacy of this companion of which it may be truly said, it sticketh closer than a brother."

The young man who begins life with no other capital than a good name, a strong arm, and his own energies, has the world before him and a competence if he will; for in this wonderful country of ours we do not believe it possible for a young man to fail in winning a livelihood, and laying aside something for a rainy day, unless he deliberately resolves upon the op, osite.

Occasionally one of such laudable intentions and pr ctices is met with, one who has early learned to take care of the pennies, knowing that the dollars will take care of themselves; but for every instance ot this kind we have a dozen who appear to have no thought for the future; who, as soon or before they earn a dollar, have plans laid for the spending of it, who spend all they toil for in extravagant dress, cigars, tobacco, lager, and in fact any and everything but that which will prove of permanent or indeed any value to them.

These are the ones who from early youth court the embraces of poverty—nor do they woo in vain. It comes as certainly as that disease, disgrace and degradation follow indulgence in strong drink, and, like the young spendthrift already quoted, can with all sincerity drink the toast, "Here's to poverty—it sticks to us when all friends forsake us."

The Power and Responsibility of Women

The subtle and mysterious attraction which everywhere draws men to women, is a sacred trust committed to women by the Creator. It is not only a power irresistible, but a passion inalienable By no misuse or disuse can it be forfeited. It is not beauty, nor wit nor goodness; for the attraction exists independently of all these.—It is simply womanhood. Man pays deference to woman instinctively, involuntarily, not because she is beautiful or truthful, or wise or foolish, or proper; but because she is a woman, and he cannot help it. If she descends, he will lower to her level; if she rises, he will rise to her height. This is the real danger—not that she will drive him from her, but in that she cannot drive him from her. She cannot make herself into a being whom he will not love. If she is insipid, ignorant, masculine, coarse—then he will love insipidity, ignorance, masculineness, coarseness, and be himself deteriorated. So much the more ought woman, by virtue of this mysterious and inalienable power, to rise to the height of its wise and worthy exercise. Instead of making it merely the minister of her own indolence and vanity, it should be made to minister all human grace and succor. Instead of regarding it as a reason why she may dispense with prudence and wisdom, it is the reason of all reasons why she should concentrate within herself every resource of prudence and wisdom.

SACREDNESS OF TEARS.—Oh! speak not harshly of the stricken one weeping in silence. Break not the deep solemnity by rude laughter on intrusive footsteps. Despise not woman's tears; they are what make her an angel. Scoff not if the stern heart of manhood is melted sometimes into sympathy; they are what help to elevate him above a brute. I love to see tears of affection. They are painful tokens, but still most holy. There is a pleasure in tears—an awful pleasure. If there be none on earth to shed a tear for me, I should not wish to live; and if no one might weep over my grave, I could never die in peace.

MEN of means are often the meanest of men.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

Wednesday Morning, Nov'ber 1, 1871.

COURT commences in this place on the fourth Monday (24th) of the present month, to continue two weeks.

AMY STONE, with Marston & Stone's, Dramatic Alliance, will hold forth at Reynold's Hall. Next Monday night, Nov. 6th and 7th.

JOHN I. RANKIN, has sold his Model Book Store, to James Welsh, who will continue the business at the old stand opposite Bush House.

BLIND TOM'S concert at Reynolds' Hall on Monday night was a complete success. "Tom" not only astonished the audience, but all were highly delighted with his entertainment.

NEW GOODS.—It is astonishing to see the amount of goods sold by the Messrs. Harper & Bro's. They do a great business. They do it carefully and well. Their customers are all good. They never complain of hard times.

AHEAD.—Messrs. J. & G. Alexander, merchants of Unionville, are determined not to be undersold in town or country. We call attention to the Supplement to the REPUBLICAN to day. They deserve the success they are winning.

THE subscriptions in Harris twp., this county, to the Chicago Relief Funds, amounted to $385,01. This is the only township in the county, that has, as yet, reported any subscriptions to the above fund, and certainly deserves much credit for her liberality and promptness.

LOST!—A Ladies' Gold Watch and Gold Locket, with short black chain, was lost on Friday, Oct. 20, between Bellefonte and Boiling Spring.

Ten Dollars reward will be paid for its safe return. Apply at Frank P. Blairs jewelry store, Bellefonte. 42-2t

FREE SCHOOLS.—The free schools of Bellefonte under the Supervision of Prof. D. H. Hastings, are now under full headway. The Prof., with his excellent corps of teachers are winning golden honers to themselves, and converting the worst enemies into friends of the free schools. More anon.

BRICK HOUSE.—Our old and true friend Isaac Miller, who was left houseless by the recent fire in Bellefonte, has now almost completed an excellent brick house, on the same ground occupied by his former residence. Such enterprise deserves commendation, and is worthy of emulation by others of our citizens. May our old friend long live to enjoy his new brick mansion, is our earnest wish.

ENTERPRISE.—Jno. Cooke, as we have often said is one of Bellefonte's enterprising merchants. But he is more. He helps to improve the town. Two years ago, he built an excellent house. He sold it and rented. He has now erected a brick house just opposite the Public school building which not only does credit to him, but is an ornament to the town. Such men as Jno. Cooke, should be patronized.

BLACKSMITHING.—Mr. Daniel Smith, who is the lucky inventor of one of the best Hay Forks in this country, has built himself a shop on Bishop St., where he not only manufactures his hay-forks; but does all kinds of Blacksmithing. He is a first class mechanic. He is master of his trade. He makes forge irons of all kinds. This is a fact to which we wish to call the attention of all the Iron Manufacturers of this county. See advertisement.

CONVALESCENT.—Jno. H. Orvis, Esq., who was seriously injured by his horse running away on last Sunday, a week since, we are pleased to see, is convalescent and was in town attending to business yesterday. We understand that Mr. Orvis made a narrow escape. We are right glad that he was not killed because we suppose the Democrats will nominate him next fall for the Assembly and we want to beat him with Col. Robt. McFarlane. It would have spoiled all our calculations for the next campaign if Orvis had been killed. The next question is what becomes of Democratic politicians whenthey die, or are killed suddenly? We are really glad that Orvis is convales-cent.

HARDWARE.—Irwin & Wilson, in their splendid Hardware Store have everything that the people need in their business. Who can get along in the winter season without stoves? Irwin & Wilson, sell the Morning Glory with all its improvements. There is no stove in the world like the morning glory. It is a beauty. It saves coal. It makes an extra heat with a saving of coal. It makes the wife happy. This makes home happy. The children are all happy. The parlor is all aglow. Everybody about the house is happy, and all because there is a morning glory stove in the house. Comfort is happiness and happiness is comfort, and who can be happy now without a morning glory. Irwin & Wilson, in addition to their stoves have everything usually kept in a Hardware Store. Give them a call. Do not fail.

THEATRE.—The children and many of the older people will be half crazy now, until they hear Amy Stone at Reynolds' Hall on next Monday and Tuesday evenings the 6th and 7th inst. Yes Amy Stone is coming. Marston & Stones Dramatic Alliance is coming. Amy Stone is one of the most versatile and beautiful actresses on the American Stage. Her advent creates a sensation wherever she goes. She is said to be a very pretty young lady, of fine figure, much fire and superior talent. She plays with much enthusiasm and wins continuous rounds of applause. Thisin a word promises to be one of the richest and best performances ever witnessed in Bellefonte. Amy Stone, do not forget at Reynolds' Hall on Monday and Tuesday evenings the 6th and 7th inst., will perform assisted by eminent Dramatic talent, the Excelsior Cornet Band Orchestra. See Advertisement.

THE LARGEST CONTRIBUTION TO CHICAGO.—James T. Hale & C. E. Anderson, the Agents for the Liverpool and London,&c., Insurance Company,handed us the following. They are good Agents find represent one of the best companies in the world.

"The Liverpool and London Globe Insurance Company will pay $2.500,000 to Chicago for fire losses there, and has besides subscribed $10,000 to the Chicago Relief Fund. This immense loss will be paid without touching the assets of the Company in this country, which amount to $3,000,000. The total assets of the Company. after deducting all losses, are over $18,000,000. We congratulate our Chicago friends that this grand old Company had an agency there, and we urge our Pittsburgh friends who desire to insure where they will be perfectly safe in any contingency to place their risks in the Liverpool and London and Globe."

CARPENTER.—One of the best carpenters in this county, is Col. D. K. Tate. He is always punctual. He always keeps his word. He never disappoints any person. This is, as all will admit, a leading trait in the character of any successful mechanic. Evidences of the handi-work of Col Tate, can be seen all over town. No matter who is idle Col. Tate is always employed. The "Big Anvil" on Irwin & Wilson's hardware store, is the result of his skill. The brackets on the same establishment, is the result of the mechanism of Colonel Tate. He is, in a word, a first class mechanic and never growls at hard times, because, on account of his skill, industry and punctuality, he is always employed.

A SPECIMEN of anthracite coal, said to have been found in the Seven Mountains, was brought to our office a few days ago. This coal, we learn, has been tested, and found to burn. The place where it was obtained is kept a secret yet by the person who found it, but it is said to be on the land of Messrs Thompson, of Potters Mills. About a year ago, we are told, similar specimens of hard coal were found by another individual, and on testing it found to be genuine. In the specimen before us there is no mistake as to its being anthracite, and if obtained in the mountains beyond Potters Mills, as alleged, a new era will dawn upon Pennsvalley and Centre county.—Reporter.

ACADEMY.—The Bellefonte Academy under the supervision of Prof. J. P. Hughes is becoming more and more notorious as being one of the best classical schools in the State. The large new brick addition will in a short time be ready for occupancy, and will enable Professor Hughes to accommodate from 60 to 70 more students. We desire to see this school prosper, and, can therefore, assure parents, or guardians that there is no necessity to send their children or wards out of the county.—The Bellefonte Academy is a first class school.

NEW GOODS.—Hoffer Brs. has just received a large stock of new goods of all varieties. This is one of the reliable firms of the town. They are clever and accomodating. Their prices are reasonable, made to suit the times. Their clerks Mr. Marshall and Teats are gentlemen in every sense of the word and spare no pains to take care of their customers or the interests of their employers. Such men are worth their weight in gold to any store. The Messrs Hoffer Bro. need not our commendations. See Advertisement.

JNO. T. JOHNSTON, P. M.

THE Sunbury & Lewistown Railroad was finished last week, as far as laying rails is concerned. This road has been pushed through rapidly, and bids fair to become a paying institution. Through trains will be run in a few days, and freights receive a new impetus to and from the coal regions.

NASBY COMING.—Petroleum V. Nasby of Kentucky X roads notoriety will lecture in Reynolds' Hall on Tuesday evening the 14th inst.

FIRE.—On Friday night, Oct. 20th, the steam grist mill of Thomas M. Way, and the barn, and the grain, hay and farming utensils in the same of William Way, both of Half Moon, were entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered about 9 o'clock in the evening by William Way, who had been away and returned home but a short time before. When discovered the one side of the mill extending clear up to the comb of the roof was in a sheet of flames. It was but a few moments until the burning cinders reached the straw stack in the barn yard, which was only about seventy yards distant, and lighted it and the barn with a fiery flash, that consumed both in a short time. The fire is supposed to have originated in the engine house of the mill. The mill had been running until about 8 o'clock that evening. The dwelling house which intervened between the mill and barn, was saved by bold and persistent efforts of a few. It was however damaged somewhat by the fire, as well as by the effort to save it and its contents. The loss is estimated as follows:

Mill property and grain in it	$11,000
The bain, grain, hay, &c.	4,000
Insurance on the mill	7,000
On the barn and crop, nothing.

MAMMOTH FURNITURE STORE.—Thomas Lynn having purchased the entire interest of H. P. Harris in their furniture store on Allegheny street, Bellefonte, Pa., has just received one of the largest lots of furniture of all kinds ever brought to this town. Mr. Linn is a clever energetic business man, and is determined to do business, and to sell furniture at rates below the cheapest. By reference to the advertising columns of the REPUBLICAN it will be seen that H. P. Harris has made a specialty of the Undertaking Business at his old stand on Howard street. Mr. Harris is well known to our people. He needs no recommendation from us. For years he has buried our dead. He has performed those sad, but naturally necessary rights, faithfully and well. He attends all funerals in person and has a first class hearse. Orders for Coffins can be left at the store of Thomas Linn on Allegheny street. Persons in want of furniture of any, or all kinds, will do well to call upon Mr. Linn on Allegheny street. See advertisement.

COAL.—The sear and the yellow leaf has come. The cool nights and frosty mornings are upon us. We have told you where to buy the Morning Glory Stoves. We must have them. Now where will we buy coal? Shortlidge & Co., are the old and reliable dealers. For years, when you could get hard coal from no other person or firm, they supplied you, and supplied you at the lowest market rates. They are prepared to do the same thing to-day. This firm has an elegant coal shed, so that you get your coal, dry at all times, you never pay for snow or ice. This is an item. Shortlidge & Co., dealers in coal and wood burned lime. Do not forget the name. See their advertisement.

NEW OMNIBUS.—Daniel Garman,Proprietor of the Garman House of Bellefonte, has purchased and is now running free from the Hotel to the Depot a new Omnibus, or hack—named the Mountain Echo. It is a beautiful wagon, and is the work of one of our own mechanics, it having been manufactured by S. A McQuistion. Wonder what McQuistion would think if Mr. Garman and all the rest of us, would go to England for our wagons? What would become of home industry; of American mechanics? Herein is food for thought. Mr. Garman by the way keeps an excellent Hotel.

NEW GOODS.—Loeb, May & Loeb, so celebrated in Bellefonte for their enterprise, have just received another lot of superior new goods. Col. May, the Senior partner, has been spending a few weeks in town. He looks hale and hearty, nearly as young as when we first knew him twenty years ago. It is a pity that he ever should grow old. But such is life. Col. May, you and I, much as we enjoy life and the society of our friends, must grow old,but the Store and the REPUBLICAN will go on when we are gathered to the fathers.

THE work of grading our railroad, is still progressing. On Van Dyke & Moore's division the road is graded to within about ¾ of a mile of Old Fort, and on Wednesday of last week Mr. Solt commenced work about a mile west of this place, on the Manor line. Quite a force is at work at the Forks and between that and Spring Mills, on Lutze's division. There is some talk of extending the Milroy road into this valley, to connect with our road, via Hebeise valley.—Reporter.

PLANT GRAPE-VINES.—Geo. M. Kepler, of Ferguson township, sent us a few weeks since, a bushel of the best Catawba Grapes. He is in the business. He has vines for sale. He guarantees his vines to grow. He is a reliable man. This month is the proper time to plant grape vines. Send in your orders to Geo. M. Kepler. We would recommend the Concord and Isabella. Plant either of these varieties, and you will succeed.

LECTURE.—Every body should turn out to Reynolds' Hall on the 14th inst., to hear P. V. Nasby's great lecture on the times. See advertisement.

For the REPUBLICAN.

"SCHOLE IN MONTIBUS."

BY J. ELLIOT ROSS.

Hail! thou "School in the Mountains,"
'Mid the bright sunny fountains
Of the dear old Allegheny hills!
May the pure stream of learning,
Which thou'rt constantly pouring,
Make them useful men and women,
Whom it fills.

May thy motto, "Education
For the youth of our Nation,"
Be the Balm that shall right many wrongs;
May halls of legislation
And ev'ry other station,
Feel thou truly art a power,
Through thy sons.

And those sons will e'er remember,
Each returning September,
That many are gathered in thy walls,
Who may by application,
And careful preparation,
Yet rise to right the millions,
Wrong now galls.

And though soon from thee forever,
They be compelled to sever,
The relation they've sustained thus far,
Still their prayers shall ascend
That thou mays't in the end,
See thy honors strown, a myriad,
Each a star.

But deep sorrow o'er me steals,
As with crushing iron wheels;
My pen cannot trace my heart's desire;
May thou e'er with youth be full,
Who thy richest gems shall cull,
And clearly prove thou art a
Purifier.

May the zephyrs of Summer,
The hurricanes of Winter,
And calms bring thee blessings to thy hand;
May Time's finger ne'er misuse
Either thee or Reverend Hughes,
While you both are such a blessing
In our land.

BELLEFONTE, PA., Oct. 28, 1871.

COMPLIMENTARY.—We have received and are still receiving congratulatory notices from all parts of the country, for publising one of the spiciest, livest, neatest and most reliable news and political papers in the State. We have published nothing, nor made any charges against any man or candidate that we cannot or did not fully substantiate. We will make no false charges against any man or candidate. We propose now to open the campaign for 1872, and tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. The following congratulatory letter we copy to let our home readers see what our neighbors abroad think of the REPUBLICAN. It is but one of hundreds, which we might publish.

AKRON, OHIO, Oct. 17th, 1871.

I receive the REPUBLICAN regularly and am much delighted in the way you handle Democracy. I think Meek is well understood by this time, if not, nothing can be attributed to you. I think you overturned every stone, especially the "Big Sandy." I am gathering some facts, and will, when I have more leisure give them to the REPUBLICAN, concerning our city and vicinity. K. J.

We earnestly solicit every Republican in the county to subscribe for our paper, and pay for it in advance. Centre county must be redeemed from Democratic misrule—the six mill tax must be reduced and the present Ring managers made to feel that they have abused the confidence and patience of the people. They must take back seats. The taxpayers have so determined. To this end friends let the REPUBLICAN find its way into every house in the county.

HOTEL.—We call the attention of readers to the Hotel Card of J. I. Kuhns, of Eagleville, in this number of the REPUBLICAN. Mr. Kuhns is one of the best landlords in this county, and keeps—we say it without hesitation—one of the quietest and best Hotels. His table is not surpassed by any. He is a clever, reliable man, and his amiable lady cannot be surpassed in her knowledge of the culinary art. Let the traveling community make it a point to stop at the house of Mr. Kuhn's.

MEAT MARKET.—Amos Mullen & Co., successors to B. V. Black, deserve great credit for the energy they have put forth to supply this community with the best of fresh meat. Such enterprise will never go unrewarded in an intelligent town or country.

GROCERIES.—The place to get good and cheap groceries, is at the store of Messrs. Ruhl & Gault on Allegheny St. They are good clever men and have everything usually kept in a grocery store. Be sure to call and see them You will save money. See Advertisement.

WE take pleasure in calling attention to the advertisement of Graham & Son., in another column. We request those of our readers in need of anything in their line, to call and examine their superior lot of Boots, Shoes, &c. There stock is first class, and prices reasonable.

THE Sabbath School convention of Howard Borough, Howard, Marion and Walker twps., will hold its next meeting in the Reformed Church, of Jacksonville, on Saturday next, November 4th, at 10 o'clock, A. M.

T. B. RUPERT, Sect. Pro. Tem.

FOR SALE.—The splendid mill property known as "Oak Hall," situate in Harris township, this county is now offered for sale. For full particulars as to price and terms inquire at the office of the Bellefonte REPUBLICAN. 43-tf

DEDICATION.—The Pleasant Hill Evangelical church, near Eagle Forge, will be dedicated on Sunday, the 12th day of November, at 10½ o'clock A. M. Rev. Benington in charge. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

DEATH OF GEN. ANDERSON.

General Robert Anderson, who so gallantly defended Fort Sumter when the first guns of the rebellion were fired, has just passed away. According to a cable dispatch received yesterday at Cincinnati, he died at Nice, Italy, whither he had gone from Venoy, a few weeks ago, in the hope of prolonging his life. He had been sick a long time, and his last hours on earth were soothed by the presence of his family. The United States steamer Guerriere will convey the remains of the deceased to his native land, and a greatful people will mourn the loss of one who served them faithfully during some of the darkest hours of the nation's history. General Anderson was born in Kentucky in 1806, and graduated at West Point in 1825. During the Black Hawk war he was inspector of the Illinois volunteers, and as such served with Captain Abraham Lincoln, who subseqently became President. During the Indian war in Florida, and the campaign against Mexico, he distinguished himself for Gallantry. His services while in command of Fort Sumter, and the promotion that was awarded him for his determined resistance to the enemy who beleagured him, are yet fresh in the memory of the American people.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

His Excellency, the President of the United States, having by his proclamation set apart Thursday, the thirtieth of November, 1871, as a day of National Thanksgiving:

Now, therefore, I, John W. Geary, Governor of Pennsylvania, do hereby cordially commend to the people thereof the observance of the same as a day of Thanksgiving to Almighty God for our State, National and individual blessings, and of prayer for the continuance of His gracious favor.

As entirely as may be possible let business pursuits be suspended. Let us spend the day in religious worship, and in such sacred communings and festivities of the circle, and so secure its pleasures and perform its duties as to make our hearts more deeply sensible of our obligations to God and our fellow men. "Whoso offereth praise glorifieth me." "He that hath pity upon the poor lendeth unto the Lord, and that which he hath given will He pay him again."

Given under my hand and the great seal of the State at Harrisburg this twenty-sixth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-one, and of the Commonwealth the ninety-sixth.

By the Governor:

JOHN W. GEARY.

F. JORDAN, Secretary of the Commonwealth.

IT IS SAID that if a puff of air were to be blown into a vein of an animal, death would instantaneously follow, because circulation would be stopped. The blood makes the entire circuit of the human body every seven minutes, and whenever this circulation is impeded or any of its channels are clogged by impurities which ought to be carried off, disease follows—fever or a disorder of liver or kidneys, or scrofula, or dyspepsia. To get at and remove the source of the difficulty use the old and infallible blood purifier, DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS. 41-4t

THE season for coughs and colds is rapidly approaching, and every one should be prepared to check the first symptoms, as a cough contracted between now and Christmas frequently lasts all winter. There is no better remedy than Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. For all diseases of the throat and lungs it should be used internally and externally.

Lung fever, common cold, catarrhal fever, and nasal discharge of a brownish color in horses, may be checked at once by liberal use of Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders.

AFRICAN WINES.—It is not generally known that Cape Colony produces the most delicious wines grown on the face of the earth. A cargo received as a remittance by our neighbors Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co. contains several varieties raised there among which the Constancia commands the highest price of any wine in the world. Almost the entire crop of it is consumed in the palaces of Europe, this rare exception being sent to them in exchange for their medicines, which have long been the staple remedies of South Africa. BRIGHAM YOUNG, the leader of the Salt Lake Saints, besides being a polygamist, seems to have dipped his hands in swindling. A suit has now been entered against the Mormon chief for retaining money rightfully belonging to a Mormon lady, and which was collected for her benefit on the death of her husband.

CHICAGO'S hope for the future is steadily increasing. All is energy and determination among her afflicted people, and ere long she will again be what she was before, the metropolis of the West.
